Subject: Online Ordering Update

The AFPDC is currently experiencing a backlog for processing and shipping orders. We apologize for the inconvenience; however customers can expect a four to six week delay between when they submit an online order and when they receive the order. In an effort to minimize the inconvenience, we are waiving the over max issue amounts for our customers. What this means is that you may order up to three months stock at a time instead of the usual one month stock (i.e. if the max issue is 300 per month, you can order 900 at one time).

Please continue to order in a timely manner, especially ensuring that you order before you run completely out of stock. We will not expedite an order that was just placed because this contributes to the backlog.

Thank you for your continued patience.
